There are so many French Canadians in Lowell, Mass., that they hold the balance of power in the municipal elections of that busy manufacturing center. The Swedes are so thick in the Northwest that a Minneapolis newspaper recently offered the Bible printed in Swedish as a subscription premium, and there are so many Irishmen in New York City that last year 40,000 Sons of Erin marched in the parade on St. Patrick's Day.

That the lure of America is not a myth is proved by the material condition of 175,000 natives of Italy who now make their home in New York-a colony in a single community of the United States containing more Italians than there are in the City of Venice. These New York Italians possess property worth $60,000,-000. They have over $15,000,000 in the savings banks of Manhattan. They own 10,000 stores, 4,000 pieces of city real estate, and they are increasing their substance every day. As a rule, it does not take long for the foreigner to prosper in opulent America. If you inquire, in all likelihood you will find that your servant girl is sending part of her wages to the home folks in Europe. The organ grinder and the banana man usually send a portion of their nickels and dimes to dependent ones on the other side, and the sum total from such sources soon climbs into the millions. The enor mous sums going from this country to Europe in this manner are shown by the post-office receipts. During the last fiscal year the United States sent postal money orders abroad to the amount of $62,937,738, and inasmuch as most business transac tions are conducted through banks, the bulk of the money-order receipts is conceded to be personal remittances.
